Lilly-Lee Gallery

Lilly-Lee Gallery held its bi-annual exhibition of students and teachers work at the St. Joseph's Hall in Corinda in June, 2010. By all accounts, it was the most successful exhibition to date with nearly 400 paintings on display and a door attendance of 639. All visitors were asked to vote for their favourite adult painting and their favourite children's painting. The opening night was attended by nearly 300 people and was opened by Julie Attwood, the State Member for Mt. Ommaney, whose husband Ron, comes to our Wednesday afternoon group. Awards were presented and the band played providing a very special atmosphere.

Art For Sale At The Gallery

Lilly-Lee Gallery gives students the opportunity to sell their work through the Gallery and on our website lilly-lee.com.au. Our front window allows us to continually change our display of paintings and we have received numerous compliments on our students art work. Sales of paintings are on the increase and during and since the exhibition interest in our Gallery has risen.

For those who aren't students the window space can be hired for a 4 week period at a cost of $500 plus a 7% handling fee on all paintings sold.

Student News

Fellow students of Lilly-Lee Gallery, Janelle Porter, Judy crewdson, Anne Leahy and Paulette Flanagan will be exhibiting at Flavours Resturant and Gallery, Hampton (via Esk). Their "Aspects of Nature" exhibition will open on Saturday 11th September and run for 6 weeks finishing on Thursday, 21st October 2010. We wish them well and encourage you all to go up and spend some time in the area during the Carnival of Flowers in Toowomba.

Student Profiles

Sally Prowd

Sally Prowd is 19 and has been painting with Lee O'Connor since she was 15 years old. Painting is one of her hobbies, although she usually only has time to paint in class during term. Sally is currently in her second year at the University of Queensland, where so much of her time is devoted to assignments, study, and of course the occasional night out! She also plays hockey, which includes training twice a week and a game every weekend. She also manages to get the local gym every week for a work out.

Sally says that ever since she started painting she has enjoyed every moment of it. It takes her mind off everything else, and helps her to relax. We all experience those moments of frustration when painting, but with a fabulous uplifting class atmosphere, the frustrations usually turn into fun and laughter. It is great to express oneself and experiment through painting, giving a carefree feeling. Sally loves painting in the class, as the other artists give her advice, critique and often inspiration. She chooses what to paint very randomly, often flicking through different books or magazines until something catches her eye. If she is looking for something specific she will usually search on the internet but paintings in shops or other people's houses are often great subject matter and give her ideas of what to paint. Sally switches between using actual photographs and paintings. Lee and Lilly Lee gallery has been a wonderful inspiration and has helped Sally find something she is passionate about. She always looks forward to going to art classes, whether it is for the lovely company of the other artists or for the delight that comes when she finally finishes a piece.

Laura Nielson

Laura is aged 13 and has been painting on Mondays at Lilly-Lee gallery for over 3 years. Over the three years she has been taught by Lee O'Connor and now Pam Leech. Laura attends Forest Lake College and her main hobby is painting. Broadening her horizons she has also joined the school choir and is planning to have singing lessons through the school next year.

So far most of her art work has been given away to friends and family. The painting of the Labrador was inspired by her grandfather going into a nursing home and missing his dog (probably more than his wife). She thought it would be nice for him to have Max as a permanent fixture in his room. It came as a total surprise to her to win the People's Choice award but she was extremely happy. She is currently working on another teenage painting that will be a belated birthday gift for another friend.

Laura has learnt so much about painting since she has been attending art classes and with each painting she learns new skills and just keeps getting better and better.
